Senate Finance Committee Approves $5,625,000,000 Tax Reduction Measure

Majority To Meet Early Today To Speed Consideration; Varies with House Bill

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Finance Committee formally approved a $5,625,000,000 tax reduction measure today and leaders arranged to meet the Senate an hour earlier than usual tomorrow to speed its consideration.

The measure worked out by the Finance Committee, however, varies widely from that approved by the House that major readjustments will have to be made in connection between the two houses. Though the Finance Committee's recommendations carry great weight in the Senate, it is considered certain that several efforts will be made to amend the bill.

Senators think exemptions should be made larger for individual taxpayers; others want to reduce the wartime excise taxes as the vote to do so; there also is a provision to write in a $25,000 profits tax exemption for corporations, retroactive for 1945.

It is a comparison of the House and Senate bills.

Estimated Total Reduction:
House bill—$5,625,000,000.
Senate bill—$5,350,000,000.

Individual Income Tax:
House: Puts three per cent normal income exemption base as surtaxs three percentage points tax rate in each bracket; tax-payers only ninety-five per cent figured under this formula. Estimated cut, $2,444,000,000.

Senate: Puts normal tax on same base as surtaxes; cuts percentage points off surtaxs in each bracket; no individual income less than a ten per cent deduction. Estimated cut, $2,000,000,000.

On both bills, 12,000,000 low-income individuals would be swept by tax cuts.

Corporations:
House: Profits tax rate as of Jan. 1, 1946; capital gains and declared value excess tax repealed; reductions ordered a graduated surtax rates on corporations with annual income above $60,000. Total reduction, $2,841,000,000.

Senate: Reduce effective rate of profits tax from 85.5 per cent to 65 per cent next January 1, reduce rate Jan. 1, 1947; repeal value excess profits tax and stock levy; reduce combined and surtax from forty per cent to thirty-six per cent. Total reduction, $1,888,000,000.

Auto Use Tax:
Senate and House bills reduce 85-cent use tax on automobiles and boats next July 1. Estimated cut, $140,000,000.

Excise Taxes:
House: No reduction in wartime luxuries and semi-luxuries. Cuts back excise taxes on articles as follows: tires, toilet paper, admissions, rail bus travel, luggage and light. Estimated loss to treasury in 1946, $695,000,000, in refunds on floor stocks.

Real Estate Payroll Tax:
Senate and House bills freeze security payroll tax through 1946 at its present rate of one per cent on employers and employees. Without such a provision, it automatically would add one and one-half per cent next year.

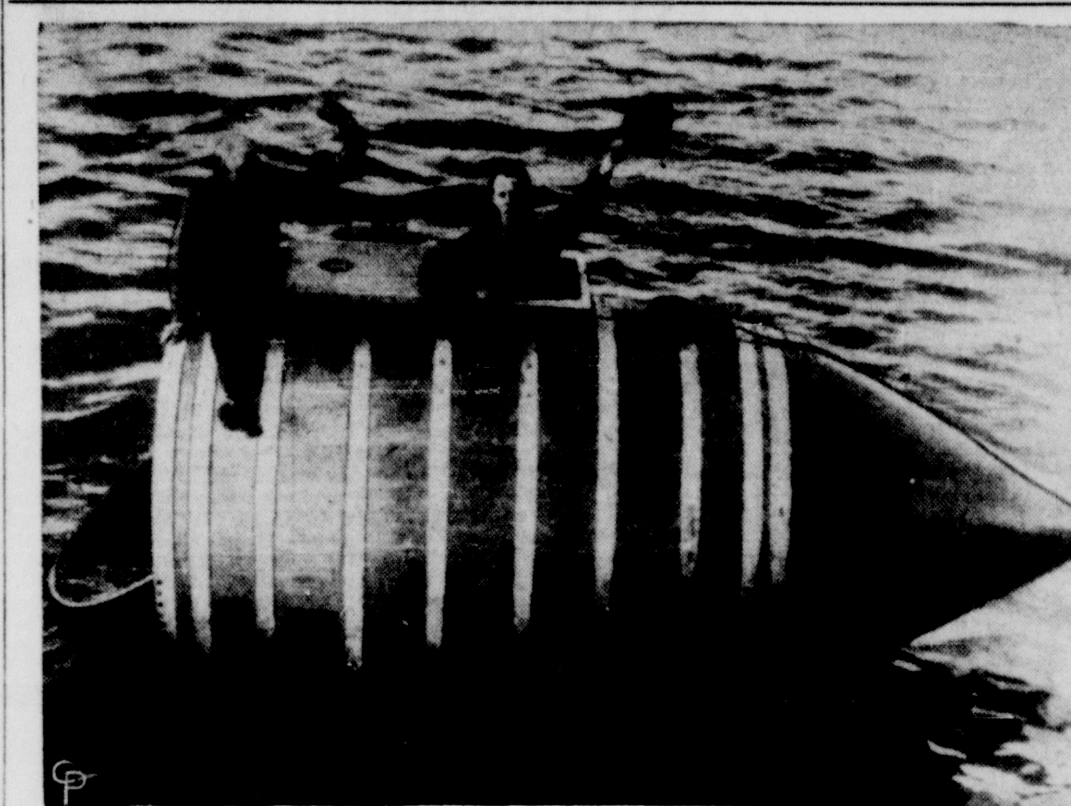

Veterans Taxes:
House: Enlisted personnel in forces forgiven all federal taxes on service pay for war extension of time given off-pay back taxes without interest.

No special veterans provision.

Who Is Nominated:
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Sen. Kenneth Claiborne Royden, 6-foot-5 former Carolina lawyer and state legislator, was nominated today for secretary of war.

President Truman chose him for the second spot in the department vacant by promotion of P. Patterson to secretary. Royden has been a special assistant since April. He is 51, Goldsboro, N. C., and took at the University of North Carolina and Harvard.

PAIR PLAN TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN BEER BARREL

PETER OLSON, 65, waving arm, above, and Mark Charlton, 36, right, plan to make an Atlantic voyage from Sydney, Nova Scotia, to England in the contraption you see above. It is really a glorified beer barrel. A sail will provide motive power with Charlton's motorcycle furnishing the ballast. The barrel is equipped with a keel, a rudder and two masts. The pair expect to complete the voyage in about eighty days. Columbus made the first Atlantic crossing in only seventy days.

Vidkun Quisling Reported Executed In Akershus Fortress

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 24 (AP)—Exchange Telegraph reported from Oslo early today that Vidkun Quisling, Norwegian traitor, was shot at 2:45 o'clock this morning in Akershus fortress.

Quisling was charged with treason and sentenced to death last Sept. 10 by a high court of three judges and four laymen after a three weeks trial. He appealed the death sentence but it was confirmed on Oct. 13 by Norway's highest tribunal.

Quisling maintained at his trial that during German occupation of Norway his actions were to protect Norwegian interests.

Ex-Officer Hits Discharge System At Camp Meade

Charges Inefficiency and Confusion; Says Errors Pass Uncorrected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—A former army officer declares in a letter placed before the Senate that the demobilization process at Fort George G. Meade is inefficient and confused.

"I never saw such inefficiency and confusion in all my life," Frank S. Driver, Mount Sidney, Va., wrote to Sen. Butler (R-Neb.).

"Papers and records were lost, roll calls were confused, about twenty-five percent of the men were A. W. O. L., and many discharge papers were made out which contained errors that were never corrected."

Was in Camp Eight Days:
Butler inserted the letter in today's Congressional Record. Driver identified himself as a former special agent of the military intelligence service counter intelligence corps.

He was discharged at Fort Meade July 1, Driver wrote, continuing: "It took me eight days to get through and I was moved to three different barracks with all my luggage during my stay. They were separating between 200 and 250 men a day at that time—more than three months ago. On my way home I read in a newspaper where they said they were discharging 1,000 a day at that time."

Driver declared that several mistakes were made in his discharge papers and that his group was held up for several hours because he insisted they be corrected.

"I started through with a group of sixty in the actual processing procedure," he said, "and sixteen men out of the sixty were missing."

"One seldom saw an officer around, and the noncoms who were being discharged said they knew nothing about the work. In fact most of the men who were doing the actual processing were privates, privates."

400,000 Soldiers Eligible To Come Home from Pacific
TOKYO, Oct. 23 (AP)—More than 400,000 soldiers in the Pacific are eligible for shipment home by November 1, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The total is 421,640, or thirty-five per cent of the 1,194,290 men on duty in the Western Pacific, Far Eastern air forces, Mid-Pacific and Sixth army corps.

The Mid-Pacific includes Hawaii and Okinawa.

A total of 239,158 men had seventy or more discharge points and were eligible to return to the United States by October 1. An additional 182,482 had from sixty to sixty-five points and are eligible to return November 1.

Soldiers with between fifty and fifty-nine points totaled 227,302, making a total of 648,960 men with fifty or more points. This is fifty per cent of all men in the Pacific theater.

Admiral King Hits Proposal To Merge Army and Navy

By EDWIN B. HAACKINSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King declared today that if Congress merged the War and Navy departments it would break up the greatest winning team in history.

"We have an organization which we know will protect us and we should not be misled into discarding it because there are details in need of correction," he told the Senate Military Affairs committee.

The holder of the dual job of fleet commander-in-chief and chief of naval operations reminded senators that the present War and Navy departments had "in less time than was believed possible attained complete victory in the greatest war in history."

In a lively exchange with senators who are pushing the merger proposal, he acknowledged there had been a lack of "team play" between the State, War and Navy departments and navy before the war.

But he insisted the proposed merger would be a backward step—"an attempt to regiment military thinking." Under it, he said, the navy could be hampered by officers "unfamiliar with naval operations."

He advocated close liaison between the State, War and Navy departments and overall military control through the joint chiefs of staff.

Although the atomic bomb and future scientific weapons may alter national policy and defense, Adm. King said he was confident that "seapower"—which includes naval air power—will continue to play an important part in the history of the world.

Earlier he had criticized Germany, Japan, France and England for their failure to utilize the "potency of seapower" in the recent war. He said the British put their naval air power into a separate air force and the "consequent withering of naval aviation left her in 1941 relatively a second rate navy compared with our own."

Senator Hill (D-Ala.), author of the single armed forces bill, noted that "Germany had one armed forces department, Japan had two, Italy had three and yet they all got licked."

"We had two and we won," Adm. King put in quickly.

Price Controls Are Termed Necessary By Chester Bowles

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles told Congress today that this country is headed for a "foundational-shaking boom and bust" unless it keeps price controls for many months.

Right now, inflationary pressures are stronger than they have been at any time in the last four years, he said.

"There's more hot money around than most of us ever dreamed there would be," Bowles, testifying before the Senate Banking committee, made no forecast as to when price controls might, in his opinion, be safely dropped.

But he declared "it is absolutely essential" that they be extended beyond next June 30, the present expiration date.

CIO Wage Demands Rejected By U. S. Steel; Murray Says Company Can Pay Increase

Union Leader Says Boost Is Needed for Sake of "Peacetime Prosperity"

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States Steel Corporation said "no" today to the demand of the CIO United Steel workers for a $2-a-day wage increase—a decision affecting the pocketbooks of an estimated 1,000,000 employees of steel and related industries.

The decision was in the form of a letter read to union negotiators by John A. Stephens, vice-president of United States Steel, at a hotel room conference.

Philip Murray, president of the union and the CIO, had an immediate reply. He issued a statement declaring that the corporation could well afford the pay boost, and that for the sake of "peacetime prosperity and full employment" the $2 increase was needed "not only in steel but throughout the whole of American industry."

Murray then announced that the union's policy committee would meet here Friday to study the corporation's refusal and "authorize such actions as the situation may require."

Then he added—in an apparent reference to hasty strike action—that "it is our sincere desire that no precipitate action be taken by members of our union which might lead to industrial disturbances."

The corporation and the union each devoted eight pages to explaining their views.

United States Steel said that "existing ceiling prices for steel products, together with the government's wage stabilization policy, do not enable us to grant a wage increase at this time."

Under present OPA ceiling prices, which are little above the quoted prices for steel before the war, the huge increases in labor and other costs since 1940 have brought us to the point where we are today selling a great majority of our steel products at less than cost," the corporation asserted.

"We believe carbon steel prices should immediately be increased on the average approximately $7 a ton. We know that if United States Steel is to continue in business and do its share in producing the steel which the country now needs and in providing jobs for our returning servicemen and others seeking employment, there must soon be substantial price increases to compensate for past cost increases."

Calls Demand Staggering
Terming the demand "a staggering one," the corporation said it would amount to an increase of twenty-two per cent in average weekly wages.

Japanese Wartime Industrialists To Keep Jobs as Families Fold Up

TOKYO, Oct. 23 (AP)—Executives who directed Japanese war industries expect to hang onto their key jobs through the partial dissolution of Nippon's multi-million dollar family corporations.

This was clearly indicated today by Harunosuke Suzuki, managing director of Mitsubishi Company, Ltd. As top administrative official for the giant holding company which dominates more than seventy corporations, Suzuki is pioneering the way for breaking up the monopolistic Zaibatsu's stranglehold on Japan's industrial life.

Whatever the decision, Suzuki indicated, present executives expect to remain in control. He said the corporations would probably follow Mitsubishi tradition for at least a generation.

The parent company and satellites have a total capitalization of 2,301,690,000 yen, or $153,446,000 at current exchange rates. Directors have a total of 1,000.

Governor O'Connor Says Democracy Must Be Given Back to People

Declares More Restrictions Affecting Free Enterprise in Nation Must Be Lifted

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—"Facing the task of peace-time readjustment, we must take democracy off the shelf," Governor O'Connor declared tonight in an address before the interstate conference of employment security agencies meeting in Baltimore.

The governor stated that during the war emergency the American people suspended the system of democratic government, adding that democracy was the only form of government "capable of this phenomenon."

"A considerable part of what we put on the shelf of federal centralization during the war has already been taken down and returned to the people," O'Connor told representatives of unemployment agencies from forty-eight states. "Many restrictions affecting free enterprise have been lifted. But more remains to be done before our entire democratic system is functioning to the fullest."

States Should Have Control
"The unemployment services which the forty-eight states, in December, 1941, turned over, as a necessary war measure, to the federal government, have not been returned to the states."

"These services should be transferred without delay. More, the transfer should be properly implemented so that the states will be provided with adequate funds for the efficient administration of these services."

O'Connor declared that among reasons for return of employment services to the states was the "production is no longer being planned from Washington" since the "period of urgent war production is over," and "industry has been largely decentralized."

"The reconversion emergency involves a readjustment of industry and of management-labor relations to the realities of prevailing labor conditions as against the global abundance of war activity," the chief executive stated, citing that this was "all the more reason why the employment services should be returned to the states."

"The result of this business of not letting one's right hand know what one's left hand is doing was perfectly expressed in the recent report of the New York State Commissioner of commerce," O'Connor said. "He pointed out that while there were some 200,000 jobs going begging in the state, the state was at the same time paying unemployment compensation to 175,000 men and women."

Labor Would Suffer
"Federal jobless aid legislation being proposed would provide special benefits to be paid from the federal Treasury. Federal money x x x means federal control. The legislation would also impose uniform benefit payments throughout the nation, regardless of local conditions."

"It is too obvious that the cause of labor will suffer if the American worker is made the special ward of the federal government; is lifted out of the problems of his community and confined in a special public treasury vacuum."

"The people of the forty-eight states x x x now have the duty to take back their powers, so as to be able to determine for themselves how they can best achieve their own prosperity and general welfare."

"It is our duty to take a good look at the shelf, and democracy in its traditional humility has shelved is taken down. The employment services must be returned to the states. The unemployment compensation services must remain with the states."

OPA Hopes To Drop Price Controls on Food by June

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles said today that OPA hopes to drop price controls on most foods by next June.

OPA studies indicate, he told the Senate Banking committee, "that there will be some sag in the prices of many foods during the coming months."

Gannett Predicts Greater Influence For Newspapers

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—Newspapers, now at "their all-time peak in every respect," in the future will have more influence and render greater public service than ever before, Publisher Frank Gannett predicted tonight.

Within the next few years newspapers "may become as colorful and attractively printed as magazines," he said in a speech prepared for a New York State Circulation Managers Association convention.

"The greatest revolution ever to affect printing is at hand," he declared. "Ink from a cylinder now can be transferred to paper without contact, by means of electronics. Bigger and more beautiful papers are in the offing."

Pamphlets, television and radio will not menace the newspaper industry, he told the circulation men. He said "there is no substitute for the newspaper," which he predicted will become far superior in appearance and more interesting in content.

"The writing will be simpler, better and more understandable," he said. "There will be more pictures, especially more local pictures. There will be more local news, more human interest, better headlines, better interpretation of the news."

In an appeal for freedom of the press throughout the world, Gannett declared that freedom has been "seriously threatened" in the United States.

President Recommends One Year's Military Training For All Young Americans

SEEKS HITLER

COL. MELVIN PURVIS, above, former FBI agent, who hunted down and killed gangster John Dillinger, is in the Heidelberg, Germany, area, supposedly checking rumors that Adolf Hitler is hiding there.

By TOM REEDY
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—President Truman recommended military training for all young Americans today to show any future war must be met by the United States with a more powerful and strong, intends to remain tough and strong. "Peace must be built on power," the president told a point session of House and Senate in a half-hour speech urging adoption of a universal training law.

The president stuck his chin out to universal training and the mountains of letters from educators, church people and others strongly opposing it haven't diminished that feeling.

Termed Courageous Speech
But Mr. Truman answered some of the objections among the lawmakers by certain qualifications in his proposed plan. As a result the public comment on the senators and representatives by and large was more favorable than had been expected.

Many of them said it was a "courageous" speech and by that they meant politically courageous. Here is what Mr. Truman proposed:

1—A year's military training for all young men when they reach 18 or when they graduate from high school, whichever comes later. In any event a youth would have to enter training before his twentieth birthday. If a boy finished high school in his seventeenth year, he could enter training, with his parents' consent.

2—A continued "small" professional armed force.

3—A greatly strengthened national guard and organized army, navy and marine corps reserves.

4—Establishment of a "general reserve" of all men who have passed through the universal training system.

The president demanded action now while the memory of Pearl Harbor is still fresh, while the ravages of war still can be seen. Moreover, he said, the country now has the facilities for the big program.

Mr. Truman said it wasn't his idea to show lack of faith in the United Nations organization to keep the peace. He asserted the United States would use all its moral and physical strength to back up that concept. But, he added, "we must face the fact that peace must be built upon power, as well as upon good will and good deeds."

Must Have Manpower
All the atomic weapons in the world, Mr. Truman said, wouldn't do the United States any good without the manpower to get them somewhere. He declared that modern mechanized warfare, as general of the army George C. Marshall said, requires more manpower than ever and it must be more highly trained than in the past.

"The day of the minute man who sprang to the flintlock hanging upon the wall is over," the president exclaimed.

"The latent strength of our untrained citizenry is no longer sufficient protection. Never again can we count on the luxury of time with which to arm ourselves."

"In any future war, the heart of the United States would be the Ashes of 17 U. S. Airmen Recovered

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 24 (AP)—The ashes of seventeen American airmen, missing from B-29 missions early this year, have been recovered by the Ninety-seventh Infantry division in a remote Japanese temple at Kumagaya, it was announced today.

Local residents said all crewmen died in mid-air collisions with another plane in late February or early March near a village of Koi-zumi, fifty miles north of Tokyo.

The bodies were cremated by the Japanese, placed in small boxes and enshrined. The ashes were removed to the Thirty-eighth Regiment headquarters at nearby Ota pending investigation and notification of next of kin.

Wreckage of the Superforts was taken by the Japanese to the Nakajima aircraft plant at Ota several months ago.

Venezuela's Revolutionary Regime Announces Emergency Program

By PHILIP CLARKE
CARACAS, Oct. 23 (AP)—Venezuela's revolutionary government bid for foreign recognition today and announced a six-point emergency program designed to lift "this backward nation to a higher social and economic level."

Luis Valmore Rodriguez, one-time newspaper editor and minister of the interior in the newly completed cabinet, declared the rights and privileges of foreign oil companies in Venezuela would be respected.

The revolutionary Junta declared it planned to divorce the army from politics immediately, to halt "graft in high public places," and to establish a representative democracy with universal suffrage.

The government said its emergency program included: Encouraging a flow of immigrants in order to diversify agriculture on a wide scale so Venezuela can produce the food it needs.

Closest possible relations with the United States.

Labor legislation permitting organization of workers and a provision for social security.

A budget for education larger than that for military purposes to improve the nation's schools.

The program was announced after emergency steps already had been taken to safeguard the nation's economy, threatened by sky-rocketing food prices.

Valmore said Junta troops had seized "considerable hoards" of sugar and other scarce commodities belonging to the deposed regime of President Isaias Medina Y Angarita.

A powerful food and price regulation board will be established quickly.

es Agree on Uniform Program Denazification of Germany

By DANIEL DE LUCE
IN, Oct. 23 (AP)—The four powers, after working for six months on a uniform denazification program for Germany, appeared today to be agreed on a sub-level for the strong leg demanded by the United States.

Impossible to estimate how long it would be required the higher bodies of the control council would sanction teeth into the vaguely worded command of the Potsdam negotiations, however, American, French and British officials of subordinate rank produced tentatively a decision code which approaches the one now in effect American occupation zone.

Agreement on a list of Germans subject to mandatory removal from Germany was reached.

Other Wonders Why Her Son Is Still in Paris

You're still in the service—army, marine corps and coast guard. Beatrice Fairfax lives in Washington and will be glad to get in touch with the War and Navy departments to give your problems correct answers. She will also answer questions in her column for those who do not ask for personal reply.

Anxious Mother
Dear Miss Fairfax:
I can't help wondering if my son in Paris is stalling over coming home. Other boys in the same unit have returned, and if he were smart I'm sure he could have returned weeks ago. In some of his letters he mentioned how charming French girls are. And then too, my daughter read something in the papers about a bride's school in Paris. Is it true that there is a bride's school in Paris?

ANXIOUS MOTHER
It's doubtful whether it's in the power of a serviceman to prolong or shorten his stay in any of the former war theaters. Yes, there is a bride's school in Paris where girls—married or engaged to our G.I.s—are taught about American menus (though why, when the French cooks are the best in the world), budget-balancing, schools, clubs, etc. They're also taught English, and given lectures on the workings of the United States government for those who desire to become citizens here.

High School Boy Drafting
Dear Miss Fairfax:
My son was kept back in high school for over a year, due to poor health, and as he will be 18 before he graduates, I'm afraid he will be called up by the draft board for induction. Have there been any new regulations as to drafting high school boys?

(MRS.) L. H.
From now on high school boys will not have to enter military service until they have been graduated. Conditions are the following: The student must have entered high school before he became 18, he must have made good grades as a student. If he meets these conditions he may ask for draft postponement until he has been graduated or reached his twentieth year, which ever comes first.

Nurses Being Discharged
Dear Miss Fairfax:
A very dear friend of mine has been a member of the army nurse corps for a year, and as her husband is being discharged I wonder whether she has a chance of coming home also. Can you advise me about this?

ANXIOUS
The War department has announced that 200 army nurses have been discharged from the nurse corps since the fighting ceased. This was done partly because of the critical shortage of nurses in civilian hospitals. One hundred and seventy of those discharged were married nurses whose husbands have been discharged from the service. Therefore, it would seem that your friend is on her way home.

Home Folks Approve Naval Academy Plans

IN SPITE of the efforts of alumni of St. John's College at Annapolis and sentimentally-inclined friends of the institution, the opposition to acquisition of the college plant by the navy for expansion of the naval academy seems to have blown up, at least as far as the people of the capital city are concerned.

The latest evidence to that effect comes in the announcement that eighty-seven of the ninety-four members of the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce have signed a resolution favoring the acquisition of the plant for the purpose. Officials of the chamber said that two of the members were out of the city and could not be reached for their signatures and that two others were naval officers who, because of their connection with the academy, were not asked to sign. The action, thus, was virtually unanimous.

The resolution comes in a long train of similar expressions by the Civitan, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, the city council, the naval academy branch of the federal employes and the Glen Burnie Rotary Club.

So it appears that, faced with the possibility of losing much of the planned expansion of the naval academy through the development of another like institution on the West Coast, the people of Annapolis and surrounding territory have been aggressively in favor of furthering the expansion program there without hindrance.

Copies of all the resolutions have been forwarded to the House and Senate Naval Affairs committees, where they will undoubtedly have much weight.

Those who have been seeking retention of the college campus as it is for sentimental reasons based upon the historical associations of its ancient main building can find some consolation in the declaration made by naval authorities that the expansion plans do not contemplate the razing of the old structure. It would be utilized and, while necessary, remodeled for new uses, its classic form and features would be retained.

As a matter of practicality, the navy needs this college ground for any sort of expansion program. Recently the college alumni association sent out a map showing the location of the college campus with respect to the academy plant. It was intended as an argument for leaving St. John's as it is, but a glance at the map utterly refutes such an argument. The campus is right in the midst of the academy surroundings and logically in the development of the academy the magnitude planned the ground is a practical necessity.

In the light of the action taken by Annapolitans it appears almost certain that the navy's plans for the expansion of the academy will be approved without further ado, in which event the capital city will continue to enjoy the advantage of its biggest institution aside from the state plant and enjoy the increased benefits that will accrue from its development. It may be said in passing that, so far as historic associations are concerned, the capital's first obligation is logically to the academy by reason of its place therein, its vital part in the national defense and the role it plays in the economy of the city and state.

Case of Lt. Burros Is a Hopeful Sign

IT IS NOT SURPRISING that 27-year-old Emmett Burros, of New York, first-American officer to cross the Remagen bridge last March, has obtained a $250-a-month job after his widely publicized failure to rate anything better than $25 a week in Gotham. He got the job with a Kansas City manufacturing firm. Though Burros is surprised at his good fortune, the surprising thing is that New York city valued his services so cheaply.

Burros was a first lieutenant of armored infantry in the Ninth armored division in other words, a success at 27. Investing in the possibilities of such a job-seeker is less a gamble than an opportunity for a large organization. If there is any bet involved, it is that the Kansas City manufacturer will profit handsomely on his business hunch, however patriotic his motive.

It would be a curious situation if the hiring of veterans were determined by their peacetime availability without regard for the aptitudes which their military service revealed or developed. Whatever their immediate qualifications for civilian jobs, that background ought to assure their employment on a preferential basis. The veteran's problem of postwar adjustment presents a responsibility for the nation that cannot be discounted without inviting social unrest and an opportunity for agitators.

A hopeful sign that this responsibility is realized may be found in the fact that Burros got the job.

Forrestal's Plan Possesses Merit

THERE IS MUCH MERIT in the plan submitted by Secretary Forrestal as a solution of the much-debated question of unifying the army, navy and air commands.

In place of the congressional proposals for a single department, the navy chief proposed first a study of the whole field of postwar defense problems by a group of military experts, congressmen and leaders in science, labor, education and industry; second, the creation of a national security council comprising the secretaries of state and navy, plus the head of a new National Security Resources Board; third, retention of the present War and Navy departments and many of the wartime organizations.

There may be some question as to the extent of the latter, but in general the proposal seems to be as Senator O'Mahoney says, "stimulating and impressive."

The secretary's argument that unification of his command under a single man was responsible for Germany's failure in the war just ended got a bit of a setback when Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) pointed out that "Germany's trouble was not with the plan but with the man who headed it," to which Forrestal nodded agreement.

The meat of the matter, however, is not that there should be no unity in command but that there should be some logical method of providing it. As for the ultimate, of course, the president as commander-in-chief constitutionally possesses the last word, and this cannot be avoided unless there is a constitutional change.

There is much to be seen in the argument that a healthy rivalry should obtain between the army and navy, and also in the notion by Forrestal that a single cabinet member in charge might be "air-minded, navy minded or land-minded."

There is a marked difference, of course, between plans for national defense in peacetime and wartime, but the success attained by the coordination attained by the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff following the need for something of the kind shown by such instances as the Pearl Harbor debacle lends weight to the Forrestal proposal.

The Beauty Shops And Punctuality

WOMEN who fail to keep their beauty shop appointments without ordering a cancellation may soon be charged for their oversight.

Delegates to the annual convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association meeting in Chicago have adopted a resolution providing that customers be obliged to pay for the time allotted to them and lost by the hairdresser as a result of the patron's failure to appear or cancel the appointment in sufficient time for the shop owner to book another patron seeking service.

Now this is serious business, considering that hairdressing is now big business. It is easy enough to see the justice involved in the plight of the beauty shop managers and workers when patrons are not punctual. Perhaps the only argument about correcting this tardiness would be the method.

The beauty shop people could devise a new sort of time schedule on the basis of shoe numbering. That is, an 11 o'clock appointment could be scheduled for 10:30. Yet it wouldn't be long until the patrons got next to that dodge. Maybe the charging scheme is the best. What with the cost of living and all, that ought to be a persuader if anything can be.

A Question and An Answer

A READER submits for consideration a question and an answer he has clipped from a newspaper.

The question is one that is heard frequently and it is to the effect that since we spent hundreds of billions for war, why can't we spend a few millions for this or that?

The answer, essayed in the light of everyday experience, is something like this: We spent $1,500 to have the hospital and the doctor cure Mother, so why can't Sister have $250 for a new fur coat?

The answer, it is declared, is the same in both cases which is that the more you take from your purse the less remains; and someday you will scrape bottom and that is not at all a pleasant experience.

This is a question to which more attention might well be given by the free and easy governmental spenders, but it has appropriate individual application everywhere.

Plans to restore chestnut trees in Maryland with an Asiatic variety naturally prompts the query on the part of those who fondly remember the days when they were sold here and there from rosters, of just what a chestnut looks like.

The latest about the proposed British loan, so-called, is that it is to be scaled down. At first there was talk of making it between four and five billions, and now under the scaling down it is to be between four and five billions.

Washington reports indications that President Truman will offer a wage-price program to the November 5 labor-management conference. The interesting part of that is that he has such a plan.

TROUBLE IS OPPORTUNITY

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A very large number of the heroes of this world would never have been heard from had not trouble of some sort come along.

Trouble creates opportunity—opportunity for service, for the stimulation of ideas, for the discovery of latent and unknown abilities, and for putting to the test all the faculties of the human mind.

The mind has to be alert and creative to face trouble. Trouble calls for quick action, for a courageous stand, and for patience, as well. Every corner of the brain is taxed when trouble looms.

Instead of finding fault, of complaining, of despairing, when trouble arises, bear in mind that trouble always means opportunity. Many people do not begin to live, or learn the value of life until they are awakened from their slumber by some serious trouble.

Trouble tones one down, too. The greatest writers are those who have known life in a variety of phases—mostly those where trouble brewed. Such writers dip their pens into their hearts instead of their brains.

Selfish people are quite often those who have never known trouble. Always self-centered, they have not been led into the secret passages of other people's problems, their headaches and shattered illusions. But when they have experienced trouble, opportunity for self-revelation appears, a new world is opened up to them, and in that world they see new beauties arise and a happiness is aroused about which they never before dreamed. Yes, trouble is opportunity.

How brave people are who have known trouble. They are the ones to tie to as friends, companions, or partners in business.

Don't duck trouble, my friend. It is bound to come to us all at some time or other. Face it. Handle it. It always means opportunity—for growth, for development, and for genuine happiness.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Clean-up by Byrnes of State Department Division Produces Results, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The fact that things are going better in Japan since Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson cracked down on Gen. MacArthur is obvious to the naked eye. MacArthur has taken the revolutionary step of instituting woman's suffrage, has helped put an old friend of the United States—Baron Shidehara—in as premier, and has taken important steps toward the democratization of Japan.

Some of the steps behind this, however, are not so apparent. They go back to the encouraging start Jimmy Byrnes has made in reorganizing his State department. While Byrnes has had hard luck with the Russians, he has made unadvertised but important progress in other things.

One of these is his clean-up of the State department's Far Eastern division. The old advisers—Eugene Dooman and Joseph Ballantine, both born in the Far East—are out. They had put faith in the Japanese aristocracy-big business clique.

Replacing them is John Carter Vincent and some hard-working younger men who long warned Cordell Hull against appeasement. Vincent, incidentally, was passed over twice for promotion by the old advisers under Hull.

Vincent has sent some tough young Far Eastern experts to work with Gen. MacArthur. Simultaneously, Assistant Secretary of War McCloy has taken a special trip to the Far East to make sure that State department-MacArthur cooperation is working smoothly.

Tokyo Chaff

Two days before MacArthur came out for woman's suffrage, he had a significant Japanese caller—Yuriko Chujo, leading advocate of woman's suffrage. Daughter of a liberal Japanese engineer, she is also one of Japan's leading novelists.

Though things are going better in Tokyo, Prince Konoye is the worst man possible to rewrite the Japanese constitution. Related to the emperor, he believes in protecting the aristocracy. Never in the past did he buck the military, though frequently pretending to.

Several years ago, this writer interviewed Premier Shidehara in Tokyo. He was then foreign minister in the Kato cabinet and definitely favored friendly cooperation with both the U. S. A. and China. However, he got the local draft board's head and gave him until January 4.

Then on January 4, Congressman May of Kentucky, intervened and got him off until January 20, at which time Stripling finally entered the Army. By that time the old Dies committee had ceased to exist. So Congressman Rankin introduced a resolution to pay Stripling a salary from January 3 to January 20 because, under the law the Dies committee being non-existent, he couldn't otherwise have been paid.

Stripling has now been in the army exactly nine months. But, with two-year veterans still in uniform, he wants to get back to Washington. And his congressional friends say the deal is all arranged.

Truman Humor

President Harry Truman was in his best form at the reserve officers' dinner in honor of Gen. George Marshall. The president spoke very humbly and simply, without notes or manuscript. It was straight from the heart to the star-studded audience of famous generals, Truman said.

"Gen. Marshall is my idea of a leader, and I consider myself something of a judge on that."

Then he went on to reveal that he has studied in his spare time the lives and strategy of such great generals as Hannibal, Genghis Khan and Napoleon.

Truman also revealed that early in the war he had gone to Gen. Marshall and offered his services. But, according to the president, "Gen. Marshall wisely turned me down." That drew a lot of laughs, and Truman smiled back happily.

But the president hit the jackpot with the army officers when he said, "And Gen. Marshall even sucsons of their own stripe and kidney; who have abdicated the first responsibility of any government, which is to maintain law and order; in short, to govern.

It is the administration of the government of the United States, its officials and alleged economists, who have corrupted the thinking of millions with European ideologies and the hatreds of "the class struggle," who have laughed off the growth of debt; who have written tax laws deliberately designed to punish one class and bribe another; who have taught Labor that if it just puts on enough pressure, it can get anything it wants; who would not enforce a closed shop. That is too much like Hitler. And then, by a cunning stratagem awarded a closed shop in the vitally important coal industry.

"Run Around" Common

It is the government which scattered the control of labor-management relations among a half hundred quarrelsome bureaus, thus making the "run around" the common description of a visit to Washington. It is the government which has promoted the cook-eyed nose that it can "create purchasing power," that it has a bottomless purse; that the nation can have more than it produces; that if the politicians only print enough hat-checks (dollars) everybody will have plenty of hats.

O.P.A., W. L. B., P. D. Q. and X.Y.Z., to the end of the alphabet and start over. . . . Is it any wonder that the public is confused; that it thinks it can get something for nothing; become rich by going into debt; produce more by striking against production; get wealth without work; promote industry by browbeating the industrious and stimulate effort by rewarding the lazy?

A half million on strike is bad enough. But millions are not on strike, nor have they been at any time. They can clean up this mess any time they select.

Forrestal's Plan For Defense Unity Is Hailed As Wise

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Youthful and realistic-minded James Forrestal, secretary of the navy who is soon to resign his post and hence has no nest to feather in the government service, has come forth with about the most practical and statesmanlike plan yet suggested for the national defense.

Instead of advocating a merger of the War and Navy departments and creation of what he calls a "government colossus" he proposes a national security council which means that the top men of the war, navy and state departments as well as the National Security Resources Board will work together to formulate American policy in respect to defense.

This goes right to the root of the difficulty which was in large part responsible for the Pearl Harbor tragedy. It places the responsibility for defense policy not on one department or on a merger of two, but upon a four-man council.

This is more in keeping with the American tradition and means that the president of the United States, as commander in chief, will have the benefit of a continuing body which will have statutory responsibility for defense.

Merger Itself Ineffective

Mr. Forrestal points out wisely that in the industrial as well as in the military field the assumption is wrong that "merger in and of itself compels either efficiency or economy" and he adds that a certain rivalry or competition is healthy.

What has never been said officially heretofore on this point is not disclosed by the navy secretary, who remarks briefly that it was this competitive spirit which gave America the air-cooled engine for the greater portion of her combat airplanes. Likewise he reveals that there were certain items of gunfire which were created by the navy, particularly the proximity fuse and radar fire control. The army didn't have to specialize on the problem of naval warfare which made it necessary to invent answers to special difficulties and hazards.

Most important, however, is the hint which Mr. Forrestal gives as to what went on behind the scenes in the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff. "The eyes of the army and its representatives on the joint chiefs of staff," he says significantly, "were inevitably and quite properly fixed on Europe as the great central plain of battle, but I submit that it was a wise thing that the navy's eyes were turned towards the Pacific and a fortunate one that the army was free to insist upon the navy's point of view within the joint chiefs of staff."

Tactful Understatement

The foregoing is a tactful understatement, for the American people may never know the debt they owe to clear-eyed and persistent Admiral King who kept in mind always the fact that America had a war to fight in the Pacific and that for the greater part of the time it was America's job all alone.

If it had not been for the unremitting pressure exerted by the navy in connection with supplies for the Pacific—a need which on more than one occasion was emphasized also by Gen. MacArthur—it is a serious question whether Japan would have been defeated as quickly or whether the United States would yet have had the bases from which an atomic bomb could be dropped.

Mr. Forrestal praises the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff but thinks it should continue to serve as heretofore as a means for expression by each of the heads of the armed services with true co-ordination by the commander-in-chief, namely, the president. Mr. Forrestal favors the keeping of authority in the hands of the commander-in-chief and not setting up a military dictatorship of armed services by one man under the president.

Civil Authority Impaired

"The plan advanced by certain proponents of unification in effect amounts to an isolation and derogation of the civil authority," the secretary says.

This is something which might well awaken the liberals of the nation and the church groups which have always fought militarism in America. In the proposed plan for a single chief of armed services lies the germ of such a militaristic set-up and Secretary Forrestal uses tactful language in denouncing it.

What is back of the persistent propaganda for the one-man control of all armed services? Mr. Forrestal points out that nobody is disputing unified command in the field but consolidation of departments at home for the purpose of controlling what happens in the field is something else again. The U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff was not a one-man affair but a four-man set-up in which the army, the navy, and the air forces were represented, together with the president's own chief of staff. But it was not a committee governed by majority vote. Each member spoke for a given service and in case of disagreement the president made the decision. The final power and authority of the commander-in-chief under our constitution cannot be delegated.

GOOD RECORDS ARE MEANT TO BE BEATEN

★ The infantile death rate in the United States is very low. From 1934 to 1936 we ranked seventh in the world, led only by New Zealand, Holland, Australia, Norway, Switzerland, and Sweden.

Yet 70,000 infants die annually in the first month of life, and 53,000 more from the second to the twelfth month. How many of these precious infants might have lived had their mothers had adequate prenatal care under the direction of a competent physician?

It is now up to the mothers to take advantage of the knowledge and skill of the physician during the trying months of pregnancy. We are ready to supply the needed dietary supplements and other medication ordered by your physician.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out the poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LISTEN WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

These worried folks you meet on every hand—Oldsters as well as Youngsters—who are looking for a job, but don't know which turn to take. Nine times out of ten they ask the same question:

"What'll I do? Wait for the job I like and think I'm fitted for? Or take the first thing that comes along?"

Actually, there's just one answer to that question. No matter who you are—boy or girl, old or young, rich or poor, clever or smart, famous or obscure—there's one thing you must do before you're fit for any position. You must learn the works.

Meaning what? Meaning this—there are certain facts you must face (about Yourself as well as the Other Fellow) . . . certain adjustments you must make . . . certain beatings you must take . . . before you're worth a hoot to yourself or anyone else. These facts have little to do with books or money or age or pull or luck . . . or Knowing The Right People . . . or Swinging The Right Line.

They are simply the lowdown on life and the people who live in it. Not life as it's written in highbrow brochures . . . or dreamed in Bohemian garrets . . . or spouted from cracker boxes . . . or twittered in drawing rooms. But life as it pours through our minds and our hearts wherever we are . . . by kitchen sinks and sewing machines, death beds and birth beds, poison counters and transmission belts, beauty salons, shipping-room platforms, penitentiary cells and migrant camp fires.

The lowdown on life. The taste of tears and the sting of sweat and the raw, red rash of shame. The ability to see yourself square and treat the other fellow fair, through joy or distress, failure or success. And, above all, the courage to forget yourself and play ball with the rest of the team, no matter how the breaks may fall. That's what the world is needing, and the boss is demanding of you.

The Lowdown On Life—That's the foundation of any success whether you're heading toward business or art or science or politics or manual labor or the service of God. And you'll never get anywhere until you've acquired it.

"But won't I spoil my talent or hurt my future if I knock around like that?" perhaps you're saying. Don't make me laugh! You haven't any talent until you know yourself! You haven't any talent until you know your fellow man! So what? So get out and get busy. So the first chance that comes around!

Navy Again Cuts Discharge Scores

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The navy announced today a further cut in discharge scores for naval reserve aviators on flying duty. The change is effective Nov. 1.

For flyers above the rank of ensign the discharge score will be cut from 44 to 39. For ensigns, the cut will be from 36 to 20.

The cut was made possible by surplus of that class of personnel, the navy said.

The score will be again cut for officers above the rank of ensign, to 34 on Dec. 1 and to 30 on Jan. 1.

The point cut effective November 1, the navy said, will make eligible for release on that date approximately 13,000 additional reserve naval aviators in all ranks.

Also effective Nov. 1, the critical score required for release of members of the navy nurse corps will be cut from 35 to 32. This reduction plus the previously announced release of all married nurses, will make approximately 2,700 nurses eligible for demobilization by Jan. 1, the navy said.

Dozen Offers Made To Adopt Baby Left In Ash Can

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23 (AP)—Albert Lee Wise, aged one, pulled out of a trash can Friday by a neighbor, has had a dozen offers of adoption to date, but his own mother has not been seen since she left the house with her baby last Friday.

The blond boy, whose picture appeared to so many childless couples, is at the City hospital awaiting the decision of Judge Charles E. Moylan, of the division of juvenile causes, who will pass on the baby's dependency.

Both his rescuer, Cpl. Frank Fox, and his uncle have identified him as the child of Mrs. Josephine Wise, 21, and Private William Wise, stationed at Camp McCoy, Wis.

12-Year-Old Boy Charged with Murder

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 23 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy was charged with murder today in the death of Dianne Blunt, 4, whose battered body was found in a shallow grave in a garage near her home in Eastend Vancouver last September.

Supt. Walter Mulligan of the Vancouver Police Criminal Investigation Bureau said the boy would appear in juvenile court Thursday.

Won't Sell Ship

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Liberty ship John Banvard, built by Bethlehem-Fairfield at a cost of about $1,500,000 for the United States Maritime Commission won't be sold, the commission said today, because the highest bid she brought for scrap metal was $3,100.

A battle-torn veteran of the Anzio campaign, she had to be towed in twice for repairs. The third time,

WSA officials decided she wasn't worth it.

Two other war-scarred ships, the Baltimore-built Thomas Ruffin and the James K. Polk, got no bids. The Texas-built Howard L. Gibson went for $9,100.

Soldier Is Badly Hurt When Hit By Automobile

Warren H. Brown, 24 McCoole, Is Dragged about 200 Feet

A McCoole soldier, home on furlough, was in a serious condition in Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va., last night from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile and dragged about 200 feet, according to state police.

The soldier, Warren H. Brown, 24, was reported to be suffering from abrasions and lacerations of the face, an injury of his left shoulder, an injury of his right hip, numerous body abrasions and shock. Although his condition was described as serious, he was reported to be in a favorable condition last night.

State police said the soldier was struck by an automobile operated by Mrs. Mary E. Welch, wife of Richard V. Welch, Keyser, W. Va. attorney.

The accident occurred in McCoole as Brown, home on a thirty-day furlough, was walking to Keyser to visit relatives.

Officers said the soldier was knocked down by the car and dragged about 150 feet. Mrs. Welch, hearing a noise, got out to investigate, saw nothing unusual and drove on for another fifty feet before stopping again, police said.

Brown finally was removed from beneath the car and rushed to the hospital.

Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brown, Keyser. His wife is Mrs. Jane Nash Brown. McCoole is on furlough from army service here. Third service command, Fort Meade.

The investigation into the accident is being continued by Trooper A. M. Spioch of the state police, officers said.

FORT CUMBERLAND POST SECURES 575 NEW MEMBERS

Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, last night reported that a total of 575 members have been recruited making the goal of 600 set for Armistice day a certainty, Samuel A. Graham, post commander announced.

At last night's meeting, members requested that all veterans of World War II and especially navy veterans, turn out in uniform for the parade Friday night in honor of Navy day.

Ambrose J. Burkey, chairman of the G. I. Christmas Gifts committee, announced that Cumberland stores co-operating with the committee's program are McCrory's, Rosenbaum's, Murphy's, Rand's and several others.

Robert C. Bowers, chairman of an Armistice day committee, announced that Cumberland pastors had been asked to preach special sermons on that day and that schools will conduct special assembly programs Monday. Thomas F. Conlon, grand marshal of the parade scheduled for Monday night, said that so far twenty-six organizations have announced their intentions of taking part.

John D. Hoeselhorn, Baltimore, deputy bank commissioner of Maryland, in a short talk, said that banks should extend credit by placing more emphasis on character than on collateral.

Matthew J. Reese, Baltimore, secretary of the Maryland Bankers Association, outlined activities of the organization and the proposed program for the coming year.

Charles A. Piper, chairman of the regional Victory Loan Committee, discussed the approaching Victory Loan drive and introduced Lynn C. Lashley and Thomas B. Pinar, Jr., who will head the campaign in this county.

P. W. Wrightson, president of the Provident Savings bank, Baltimore, and state chairman of the Victory Loan Committee, commended Allegany and Garrett counties for its successful War Loan drives in the past and said he does not believe either of the counties needs a pep talk to put the forthcoming campaign across.

Committee Is Named

A special committee composed of Mosser, William B. Yates and H. C. Riggs, prepared and presented to the group a set of bylaws and a constitution which were adopted.

The legislative committee appointed Wilbur V. Wilson, William H. Jenkins and Charles Z. Heskett as a committee to be "watchdogs" of legislation that affects banks and banking.

A committee composed of Harry A. Pitzer, Tasker G. Lowndes and Wilson presented a resolution of respect on the death of Harry Footner, president of Peoples bank.

One hundred and thirty-five members and guests attended the meeting which was marked by the largest turnout of bank directors in recent years.

Luke Barnett, well known Pittsburgh entertainer, served in the capacity of a waiter and annoyed many of the guests, criticizing their table manners, accusing them of eating too much and casting aspersions on the banking profession.

Invocation was asked by the Rev. Dr. Walter M. Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist church. Music was furnished by the Nestor sisters of Westminster.

pected in passenger business between the three transportation forms with the railroads holding the belief that they will have the major portion of it, or at least a large share. In freight business, it was maintained, the railroads will continue to move the bulk of everything over parcel-express packages and l. e. l. (less than carload lots).

Railroads Make Improvements

The vast improvement in the nation's rail systems was shown by statistics of their work in the two world wars, which also impresses the difference between public and private operation, Turnbull said.

During the war just ended the railroads hauled twice the volume of freight twice as many miles as in World War I. They carried twice as many people twice as far with one-half the number of locomotives, one-third the number of cars and with 1,500,000 of their men in the armed services.

The railroads cost the taxpayers of the country $2,000,000 a day during World War I, while they paid the government twice that each day in the last war. Ninety per cent of the war materials and troops were moved by rail, and the vital oil transport went up to a million barrels a day although the government had predicted the limit at one-fifth that.

Guests at the meeting included Garland Powell, Gainesville, Ga., past governor of the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh Rotary district; Thomas B. Calhoun, Baltimore; DeWitt H. Conway, Uniontown, Pa.; and the Rev. Watson Holley, J. Stanley Epper and Michael Heiskell, all of Frederick.

Garrett County Man Is Charged In Highway Death

Andrew Schlossnagle Is Accused of Manslaughter by Automobile

Charged with manslaughter by automobile in the death of Jacob N. Pazenbaker, 52, of near Bear Creek, Garrett county, early Sunday morning, Andrew W. Schlossnagle, 41, of near Bear Creek, was held under bond of $1,000 by Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, Oakland, yesterday afternoon for action of the March term of grand jury of Garrett County Circuit Court.

Neil C. Fraley, state's attorney of Garrett county, who entered the charge against Schlossnagle, said the latter asked for a jury trial when he appeared before Loraditch yesterday. He posted the bond pending grand jury action in March.

Pazenbaker was killed instantly shortly after midnight Saturday when he was struck by a car while crossing Route 40 in front of Asby's tavern, two miles west of Grantsville.

State police said Schlossnagle was driving the car that hit him. They explained that Pazenbaker had alighted from his car, parked opposite the tavern, and was crossing the highway when he was struck.

Pazenbaker's body was thrown to the right side of the road and the front of Schlossnagle's car was damaged, police reported.

Pazenbaker suffered a crushed chest wall, a punctured lung and other injuries.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in Bethany Brethren church, near Grantsville. Interment was in the church cemetery.

State Troopers Blair J. Buckel and Glen D. Folk investigated the accident.

CIO Wage

straight time wages." It estimated the average straight-time pay for steelworkers in five subsidiaries directly involved in the negotiations was $1.31 an hour.

The wage increase, it said, would increase labor costs of the subsidiaries $128,000,000 a year and "produce a situation where the corporation will be operating over all at a serious loss, that is, in the absence of compensating price increases to take care of its costs."

Murray countered that the corporation's statement was "replete with distortions and absurdities." He said that during wage negotiations corporation representatives "unfortunately were not disposed to collective bargaining but to the contrary contented themselves with preparation of the letter."

"They evidenced no desire to discuss issues at any stage of the negotiations," he said. "They were evidently hell-bent on disagreement."

President Recommends

enemy's first target. Our geographical location like an attempt to convert call security is now gone—gone with the advent of the robot bomb, the rocket, aircraft carriers and modern airborne armies.

Aggressor nations understand only one thing, he said—and that is military power. Universal service, plus continued scientific research, will keep the United States power at a potential peak, he said.

The president said the trainees wouldn't be in the army or the navy, they wouldn't be inducted. They would be civilians for their year of service in which the stress wouldn't be only on drilling but would be placed on the finer mechanics of warfare and perhaps even munitions making. In time of an emergency or war, it would take an act of Congress to induct them into the regular armed forces, as is now the custom.

That latter point obviously was aimed at answering some of the criticism. Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), who is against the whole idea, commented that he was glad to see the young men wouldn't be soldiers in fact.

The president also made what critical detractors of his said the year's period could be used for "self-improvement" in the way of education and development of skills, raising the literacy standards and improving the physical well-being of the nation's youth.

He said he didn't think there should be any exemptions except those with total physical disabilities. On this score, Senator Johnston (D-Cal.) disagreed though he generally favored some sort of training. He said there should be hardship exemptions and others, in the same way that Selective Service grants them in wartime.

Mr. Truman acknowledged that the building of a citizen's army would entail some hardship to the people. But the primary consideration, he declared, is the security of the nation.

"Let us not by a short-sighted neglect of our national security, betray those who come after us," he concluded.

There was no sign of immediate action on Capitol Hill. The House Military committee has a bill by its chairman, May of Kentucky, to set up a year's compulsory military training. May declined to say when it might be considered.

Senator Johnson, of Colorado, acting chairman of the Senate Military committee, declared acidly that "I'm opposed to conscription and that is what this is."

High-placed members of the House, especially on the majority side, declined comment but told reporters privately that they didn't think the measure "has a chance."

Venezuelas

to take all steps necessary to prevent speculation, he said.

Another decree froze the property and funds of all public officials with wealth in excess of 100,000 bolivars ($30,250). Another slashed ministers' salaries and hiked those of army, navy and air force personnel and workers corresponding to United States Civil Service employees.

Early recognition of the new regime was forecast by some diplomats in the Venezuelan capital tonight. One report said the United States State department was "favorably inclined" on the Junta's make-up thus far.

The Guatemalan president, Juan Jose Arevalo, extended greetings to the new government. Mexico and Colombia were reported to have sent unofficial messages of sympathy.

Are Holding Celebrations

Action taken so far by Mitsubishi, Mitsu and other wealthy clans has been without specific directives from either the government or occupation authorities.

Acting under specific orders from General MacArthur's headquarters, the ministry of justice today suspended Japan's twenty-two police protective surveillance stations. The delayed action wrote "fins" to the nation's dread "thought" police.

A marked change in Japanese thought was shown in the attitude toward returning prisoners. Relatives at home prepared celebrations for defeated warriors. Fear of disgrace if captured led thousands of Japanese to kill themselves on the battlefield or die before American guns in fanatical banal charges.

The Japanese homeland had only enough ammunition for a few days of close combat when Tokyo surrendered. American officers disclosed Col. Robert K. Hall, Eleventh corps ordnance officer, said it was "about half the amount we planned to take in on the initial landing," in Japan.

NLRB Hears Labor, Company on Mine Supervisor Issues

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP)—The issue of recognition of John L. Lewis's union for mine foremen, which precipitated nearly four weeks of strikes, was argued before the National Labor Relations Board today.

Lewis called off the strikes at 1,000 soft coal mines, involving more than 200,000 miners, over the weekend.

Although involving directly only 183 supervisory employees of four Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation "captive" mines in Western Pennsylvania, the case before NLRB calls for establishment of an overall labor policy in the coal fields. It is based on a petition by an affiliate of the UMW's District 30 for certification as bargaining agent for supervisors in the Jones and Laughlin Vesta-Shannon division pits.

The union wants the NLRB to reverse a 1943 decision in the Maryland drydock case which held that supervisors could not be represented by a production workers union. Last March the board approved an independent union of supervisors at the Packard Motor Car Company. Both cases were decided by split decisions.

Samuel Krimsly, Pittsburgh lawyer representing the UMW-Affiliated United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees Union, argued there was no bar under the Labor Relations act to production workers representing supervisory employees.

Two other Pittsburgh attorneys, John C. Bane, Jr., and Nick Unkovic, representing J. & L., argued that the UMW affiliate could not be considered "legally competent" to represent company's management "i. e., the supervisors."

After reviewing testimony taken in regional NLRB hearings, the present lawyers completed their presentations except for the filing of final briefs due before October 29.

each party would "go into the merits of the situation as stated by the other party."

Labor Pot Bubbling

Ford's moves got the major share of attention here, in view of strike votes being taken this week at General Motors and Chrysler Corporations, and early next month at Ford plants.

But developments in coal, oil, steel and other trouble zones kept Washington's labor pot bubbling. They included:

1. Recognition of John L. Lewis's Foreman's union—The dispute which caused the newly-ended strike of 216,000 soft coal miners—was argued in a Pennsylvania case before the National Labor Relations Board.

2. The War Labor Board began hearings on the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company dispute, which caused the recent shutdown of all Ford operations and idleness for 50,000 Ford employees.

3. The wage-price question came to Washington's attention in its most concrete form with United States Steel's rejection of the CIO United Steel Workers' demand for a $2 a day wage increase. The company said present price ceilings "do not enable us" to boost wages.

4. Secretary Schwelienbach said President Truman would open the national management-labor peace conference, which starts here Nov. 5, in an effort to find voluntary machinery for settling labor disputes.

public, quasi-public and private positions was more difficult. The Potsdam declaration, to which the negotiators continually referred, furnished only this loosely-worded order:

"All members of the Nazi party who have been more than nominal participants in its activities and all other persons hostile to Allied purposes shall be removed from public and semi-public office and from positions of responsibility in important private undertakings."

The representatives of the four powers reportedly finally assented to the declaration in memorandum 1067 that membership in the Nazi party before May 1, 1937, was proof of more than nominal participation.

builders. He also renewed a request, which Congress turned down last spring, for authority to control rents of offices and commercial buildings. Present rent controls extend only to dwellings.

The committee cut short its meeting in order to hear President Truman's address and consequently had no time for questioning of Bowles. He was asked to return on Thursday.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told Bowles he had "about an hour and a half" of questions to ask.

Demurrer Is Filed In B. & O. Road Blocking Suit
William A. Gunter and D. Lindley Sloan, counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, yesterday filed an answer and demurrer to the bill of complaint filed several weeks ago by the board of county commissioners for an injunction against the railroad to avert blocking of the Mexico Farms crossing.

The attorneys asked that the injunction issued September 21 by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper be rescinded, contending the railroad is not entitled to maintain the suit and that the court lacks jurisdiction in the matter.

Horace P. Whitworth, attorney to the board, instituted the injunction proceedings after residents of the Mexico Farms area had made repeated protests that the crossing was blocked on many occasions for one or two hours at a time, delaying persons going to work, school buses, mail trucks and other vehicles.

In the answer, the company attorneys said it is planned to install a new "dwarf" signal along the No. 4 track as soon as possible, at a cost of $13,000 and that the operational difficulties, which caused trains to stand on the crossing would be eliminated.

The attorneys pointed out that traffic on the railroad has been heavy due to wartime conditions, and that members of train crews were notified to avoid blocking the crossing more than ten minutes at a time. The attorneys added that disciplinary action has been taken against employees who violated the

The mayor stated that the Small Pay Engineering Company, Cumberland, had offered to do the engineering work for nine percent of the cost. They would make a skeleton survey for $500 which the town would pay them whether the project is approved or not by the government. If FWA approves the $500 will go toward the nine percent for the entire work; if not approved, the drawings made in the skeleton survey will be turned over to the town officials. A letter was ordered sent to the engineering company requesting them to send a representative to the next meeting of the commissioners.

German Aid Is Speeding Russian Hunt for Atomic Bomb Secret

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
BERLIN, Oct. 23 (AP).—Russians have been working diligently trying to discover the atomic bomb secret with the aid of equipment and data removed from German laboratories with the help of German scientists, says Dr. Guenther Hillmann, acting director of the Berlin division, Kaiser Wilhelm Institute.

Dr. Hillmann, in an interview, predicted that the Russians might develop their own atomic bomb "within two years—with the help of Germans. But without that help it likely would take many years."

He confirmed an Associated Press report from Vienna that the Russians were bidding for German scientists' services. He said he knew of a number who had accepted; and he had been approached, and "could go anytime." The pay offered is about 2,000 rubles—about $500—per month, he said.

"The Russians are working extremely hard on the atom bomb and seek the slightest information," Dr. Hillmann said. "They cleaned out practically all our equipment here before the Americans took over this zone, and even collected the floor sweepings as clues to experiments, and took the light switches out of the laboratory walls and knobs out of the laboratory doors."

But, he added, the German scientists who knew most about atomic theory experiments were under American and British control, many of them taken by the Americans in Bavaria, whence numerous experiments had been removed to get relief from the bombings.

Dr. Hillmann, a bio-chemist, said he "guessed" the Germans were within weeks or months of producing atomic bombs when the war ended, and he believes the Germans were ahead of Americans in experiments to develop atomic energy for industrial uses.

The German scientist said the Russian task now chiefly is a matter of "technics" which take time.

Scientists Want to Work

Some who had gone to work for the Russians, either in Moscow or in Russian-occupied territory, Hill-mann said, included Prof. Peter Theissen, former director of chemical physics at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute; Dr. Christian Ludwig Develogua, former acting director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of physics; and Prof. T. Z. Hertz, a physicist, now working in Moscow.

In some cases, he said, the Russians had been using pressure to get the men they wanted.

"I can safely say there are few Russophiles among the German scientists," he said. "But we feel our work too restricted by policies of the Western Allies. All we want to do is work and we'll submit to controls, but we do want to carry on. We feel that the Americans actually are driving us into the arms of the Russians who, on the other hand, are encouraging free research and are reaping the full benefits of German knowledge."

All the 2,000 Irish army soldiers who paraded recently in Dublin were over five feet ten inches tall.

Dodgers' Montreal Farm Signs Negro Shortstop

Jackie Robinson, Kansas City Monarchs' Star, Is First Negro Admitted to Organized Ball

By SID FEDER

MONTREAL, Oct. 23 (AP)—The first Negro player ever to be admitted to organized baseball was signed tonight by the Brooklyn Dodgers for their international league farm club, the Montreal Royals.

Jackie Robinson, one-time UCLA halfback ace and recent shortstop of the Kansas City Negro Monarchs, put his signature on a contract calling not only for a regular playing salary but also for a bonus for signing.

Product of a three-year search and $25,000 hunt for Negro diamond talent by Dodger President Branch Rickey, Robinson signed up in a history-making huddle with Hector Racine and Lt. Col. Romeo Gauvreau, Royals' president and vice president respectively, and Branch Rickey, Jr., who heads the Brooklyn farm system.

"Mr. Racine and my father," said Young Rickey in making the surprise announcement, "will undoubtedly be severely criticized in some sections of the United States where racial prejudice is rampant. They are not inviting trouble, but they won't avoid it if it comes. Jack Robinson is a fine type of young man, intelligent and college bred, and I think he can take it too."

Robinson, himself, had little to say about his part in the unprecedented event.

"Of course, I can't begin to tell you how happy I am that I am the first member of my race in organized ball," declared the lean, quiet, six-foot 190-pounder. "I realize how much it means to me, to my race and to baseball. I can only say I'll do my very best to come through in every manner."

Comes as Surprise

The word that for the second time in his long career in baseball Rickey was taking an especially revolutionary step — twenty-five years ago he founded the "chain store" system of player development — came as a complete surprise even to the few baseball writers and photographers summoned for the event.

At 2 p. m. the local newspapers were advised the Royals were to have an announcement at their offices at 5 p. m. There was no indication what the announcement was to be.

Then, with the writers and photographers assembled, young Rickey and Racine made the announcement. Rickey Jr. went on to explain that both he and his father—who was not present—realized the implications and possible reactions in other quarters of the diamond world.

"It may cost the Brooklyn organization a number of ball players," he said. "Some of them, particularly if they come from certain sections of the South, will steer away from a club with colored players on its roster. Some players now with us may even quit. But they'll be back in baseball after they work a year or two in a college mill."

In addition to Robinson, it was learned Rickey Jr. has sent for two other Negro players to sign to contracts for Double-A ball, with the intention of developing them into big leaguers.

Scouts Agree He's Good

Early last season, two of Rickey's scouts reported that the shortstop of the Kansas City Monarchs—Robinson—was ready for virtually any competition. In August, Rickey Jr. sent a third scout to Chicago, to see if he was ready to sign to a contract. Within a fortnight, this scout, who telephoned him to "grab the shortstop of the Monarchs—Robinson's your man."

On August 29, Robinson was quietly brought to Brooklyn. Rickey Jr. told him what he had in mind, and the broad-shouldered Pasadena, Calif., Negro came to terms, agreeing to sign a contract by November 1. Today was the day.

Ridgeley Repeats Stunt

Prelim Boys Here Go Up

Spangler Is Casualty

Mixon Files for Exam.

By C. V. BURNS

When "Ace" Comer, Ridgeley high school fullback, intercepted a pass in the closing minutes of play and scampered fifty-five yards to score the touchdown that stopped Moorefield last Friday in Ridgeley he practically duplicated the stunt credited to another Ridgeley player on the same field against the same team four years ago.

On Friday, October 24, 1941, Billy Bennett, Ridgeley halfback, intercepted a Moorefield pass tossed by Wilson and sprinted sixty-five yards for the lone touchdown of the game. Thomas kicked the extra point to give Ridgeley, then coached by Bill Hahn, a 7-0 victory. Bennett picked the second quarter for his game-winning dash.

Three boxers who fought as preliminary boys in one of "Vic" Rickers' professional fights here in November, 1941 have really gone up the ladder since then. They are Hilton "Fitzzy" Fitzpatrick, the West Virginian, who kayaked Jack Walker of Baltimore, in two rounds; George Kochan, the Akron, Ohio, 160-pounder, who stopped Manuel Rosa of Philadelphia, in two heats and Sammy Parrotto, the Pittsburgher, who whipped Tommy Hudson, Cleveland Negro.

Fitzpatrick, a middleweight four years ago, is now getting main bouts on the Pacific Coast as a light-heavy; Kochan has grabbed off several top events in Baltimore and other cities; Parrotto has been given top spots in the Pittsburgh district.

The trio fought in prelims to the Jack Wright-Ira Hughes here. Included among the football casualties of the past week was Bill Spangler, the well known umpire, who has figured in most of the games played here this season.

Bill was working the Ridgeley-Moorefield game last Friday and several plays before the first half ended he took a header about midfield during one of Ace Comer's short end runs along the sidelines.

Spangler has been bothered by a trick knee and the fall added to his misery. He limped through the Fort Hill-LaSalle game as head linesman Friday night and we understand he was on crutches this week.

Wild turkeys are reported to be plentiful in Pendleton, Randolph and Pocahontas counties, according to a report from the West Virginia Conservation Commission. The turkey hunting season opened in our neighboring state last Saturday and runs through December 1. The grouse season is also open in West Virginia and closes December 25.

The turkey bag limit is one a season and for grouse three a day and twelve for the season. The grouse season is statewide but turkey hunters will be restricted to all or parts of the following nearby counties: Grant, Hampshire, Mineral, Hardy, Morgan, Randolph, Tucker and Pendleton.

Battle Mixon of this city, who has served as district game warden for the past five years, is listed among those who have filed applications for the examination to be held sometime in November for the position of regional game warden of Region No. 6, which comprises Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties.

The examination will be conducted by the State Employment Commissioner and the deadline for applications is November 1. The test is open to all district wardens in the state.

A vacancy was caused in District No. 6 when Regional Warden Barnes was shot and killed. Cumberland is in Region No. 1, which comprises Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties. Joseph A. Minke is regional warden.

Allegany County Gets 100 Gobblers

Fifty Are Already Stocked in State Forest East of Here

Fifty out of an order of 100 turkeys gobbler assigned to Allegany county have been stocked in the past several weeks and the additional fifty will be released gradually, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, announced last evening.

Minke said that only gobblers are being released. Turkey hens are being held until spring for propagation purposes.

The birds are being released in the state forest of 25,000 acres which covers a series of mountain ranges in the Green ridge section east of Cumberland.

Turkeys sent here were raised on the state game farm in Washington county.

Minke called attention to the fact that regulations on turkey hunting for this year were changed recently by the Maryland Inland Fish and Game Commission. Instead of one day and four seasons, which was the old bag limit, hunters now are allowed to take only one a season. This change was made so as to have Maryland regulations conform with

YMCA RECEIVES SCOREBOARD AS GIFT

THE CENTRAL YMCA is the recipient of an electrically operated basketball scoreboard, the gift of Dr. Frank U. Davis, chairman of the association's physical education committee. The board, which indicates the score as soon as goals are scored as well as the time, occupies a conspicuous place in the "Y" gym. It is five feet long and four feet wide. Shown above giving the new scoring device the "once over" are Lloyd Rawlings, left, president of the YMCA's board of directors, and Dr. Davis, the donor.

Bazell, Dougherty Are Replacements For Bob Mattingly

Other Changes in LaSalle Lineup Made by Long for Allegany Game

Kenneth Bazell or Tommy Dougherty will replace the injured Bob Mattingly, LaSalle's fullback and leading scorer of the team, when the Explorers face Allegany high school Friday night in the Fort Hill stadium. Coach John J. Long announced last evening.

With Eddie Malloy also out with injuries, Tommy Cloonan will get the call for the quarterbacking job with John Nesbit and Tommy Carroll at their regular halfback positions.

Jones Shifted to End
Long stated that Claude Jones, regular tackle, has been moved to end to replace the injured Joe Dorsey, the team's best kicker. Mike Arnone will take over the position vacated by Jones. Johnny Espolito or Jim Dorsey will start at center.

John Steiner, captain, and left end, and Caspar Oltner, reserve back, will do the kicking for the Explorers.

The LaSalle mentor said that Mike Blake, who suffered a cut lip in the Fort Hill game, will play provided a mask can be found for him.

LaSalle found Community park a mess yesterday after the circus moved out and with hay piled up on the premises the boys suggested that they defer practice in place of a hay-pitching contest. Today's drill has been transferred to Sitcher field in North End.

Officials for Friday night's game will be "Bobby" Cavanaugh, referee; Ed Milbrada, umpire, and Dan Stanley, head linesman.

Blanked in Three Games
Ridgeley high school's Blackhaws, fresh from a victory over Moorefield, will be striving to score for the first time against a Fort Hill team when they battle the Sentinels Saturday night in the stadium.

In previous games between the schools, Fort Hill piled up 128 points in winning 47-0, 36-0 and 45-0. These games were played in 1942, 1943 and 1944.

Eighteen Simon Pures Engage in Workouts
Eighteen amateur boxers worked out last night in the basement of the state armory in preparation for the American Legion tournament which will be held in the armory on Monday and Tuesday, October 29 and 30.

The session was supervised by Danny Alberts, former Pacific Coast heavyweight.

Among the interested spectators were Fay W. Keyser and Howard "Red" Bush, well known Cumberland middleweights of past years.

Tomorrow night at 7 o'clock the final training session is scheduled at the armory.

Boxers from Cresaptown and Flintstone were among the youngsters who will participate in last night's session.

those in effect in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Maryland's upland game season runs from November 15 through December 2, then there is a lapse of six days for the deer season before other game may be hunted from December 10 to 31.

The fishing season, now in full swing, closes on November 30.

British Buddy's Trainer Disclaims Knowledge Race Horse Was Drugged

Hearing on Case Involving Laurel Winner Gets Under Way

By JOHN F. CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23 (AP)—James McGee, Louisville, Ky., trainer for Morris Wexler, Cleveland horse owner, testified before the Maryland Racing Commission today that he had no knowledge of caffeine being administered to British Buddy, winner of the Maryland Handicap at Laurel Park October 13.

The commission said that a saliva sample tested by chemists for the New York Racing Commission at Jamaica showed a "positive" reaction to caffeine in a report submitted by Dr. Charles A. Morgan, chief chemist for the New York racing body.

Trainers Are Responsible

Under Maryland racing rules, trainers are held directly responsible for the condition of horses. George P. Mahoney, racing commission chairman, said as the hearing opened.

Several character witnesses for McGee were heard, among them John A. Healey, Cockeysville, Md., trainer for Christiansa Stables, whose Service Pilot was second to British Buddy in the Maryland handicap.

Healey, chief magistrate John J. O'Malley, of Philadelphia, and Trainer Charles W. Shaw, Jr., of John Bromley's Cedar Farm, Pa., testified that McGee's honesty and integrity "was beyond question."

Billy Conn Is Witness

Also present as a character witness, but not called to the stand was Billy Conn, the Pittsburgh contender for the world's heavyweight boxing title. Richard J. Connor, Washington, D. C., attorney for McGee, said Conn might be called when the hearing resumes tomorrow afternoon.

Conn said after the recess that he had known Wexler and McGee for many years, "and it doesn't make sense that they would even think of such a thing because that horse has won five of his six races this year."

The hearing was delayed because Dr. James C. Munch, professor of pharmacology at Temple university, Philadelphia, was forced to return on account of previous engagements. Munch will testify tomorrow for the defense on the effects of caffeine as a stimulant, Connor said.

Hall Hammond, deputy attorney general of Maryland who represented the commission, attempted several times to have Dr. Morgan describe the possible effects of caffeine, but was overruled by Chairman Mahoney after Connor objected that the New York chemist was not qualified as a pharmacologist.

McGee said he had been training horses for twenty-six years, and had been employed by Wexler for two and a half years. He said saliva tests were taken after each of British Buddy's victories this year, and that the horse acted no differently on the day of the Maryland handicap than any other racing day.

"I had no bet on the horse that day, and never had been accused of drugging a horse during my career," McGee said.

Dr. Jack A. Ladson, commission veterinarian who took the saliva tests October 13, and Inspector George F. Abrecht, in charge of the saliva box, explained the procedure and said it would be virtually impossible for anyone to tamper with the testing equipment or sealed jars which are mailed to the New York chemist each night after the program.

Roger Simpson, of Cincinnati, McGee's foreman, and Louis Smith, Louisville, groom, said British Buddy was vanned from Pimlico to Laurel the day of the race with half a dozen other horses and that there were "six or seven" persons in the van. They said they saw no one give the horse anything at Pimlico, in the van or upon their arrival at Laurel.

The $11,575 winner's share of the $15,000 purse was ordered held up and Wexler's horses were banned and McGee suspended pending results of the hearing.

Silver Star Hero Paces Mountain Region Scorers

Cromer Survived 19 Months in Prison Camps; Chalks Up 44 Points

By BILL CLARK

GREELEY, Colo., Oct. 23 (AP)—A silver star hero, now 32, who survived nineteen months in German prison camps, picked up the college career he left eight years ago and has snatched the individual scoring leadership in mountain region football with 44 points.

Shock-haired Elmo Cromer, Colorado State fullback, has posted six touchdowns and booted eight conversions to wrest the No. 1 position from Utah State's halfback, Ernie Groll, who last week raised his total only one point, to 37.

The Fort Collins, Colo., back, a first sergeant, won the silver star and a battlefield promotion to lieutenant in the Sicilian campaign. He led five companions in a heart-breaking scaling of Bloody Ridge, carrying boxes of food and ammo to mortar crews seeking to break the Germans' grip. They worked more than thirty hours.

"Our pack mules were dead so we had to lug the stuff ourselves," Cromer said. One of the mortar men was Sgt. Ed Shaw of Greeley, a 250-pounder now playing guard for Colorado State.

The promotion went through, but meanwhile Cromer's outfit, the famous Forty-fifth Thunderbird division, was landing at shell-raked Salerno in Italy. His second day in-land—September 12, 1943—he was cut off by a German panzer division and taken captive, then sent to Germany.

Liberated last April, Cromer weighed 155 at six feet one, but he now packs 190 pounds. Coach John Hancock says he's a brilliant math student.

Can an ex-GI study? Cromer says it's tough.

"When I've read a text book paragraph I sometimes don't know what the devil is in it. It's hard to concentrate. But I'll get past this form of 'concentration.' It's nice to forget the other kind."

Serve Challenges Freddie Cochrane

Winner of 46 out of 48 Pro Bouts Wants Crack at Champion

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP)—Marty Servo, winner of 137 of his 143 bouts as an amateur and professional boxer before he enlisted in the coast guard in 1942, today joined the challengers for Freddie Cochrane's welterweight title.

"I don't care whether I fight Cochrane for the title or over the weight," said the 26-year-old Schenectady, N. Y., mitt slinger through his manager, Al Weill. "But I think I'm entitled to a chance on my pro record of 46 victories in 48 bouts."

Both of Servo's pro defeats were administered by Ray "Sugar" Robinson in two close scraps, one, at Philadelphia late in 1941 and the other at Madison Square Garden early in 1942. However, the defeats furthered Marty's national reputation, for on each occasion Robinson was favored to win by a knockout.

A cousin of former lightweight champion, Lou Ambers, Servo recently was discharged from the service. He makes his formal return to the ring at Boston on November 2 against an opponent still to be named.

"He's been working out so good," Weill said, "that you'd think he only stopped boxing yesterday. He weighs around 148 now compared to 142 for his last fight against Robinson."

LaSalle Seeks Bedford For Game Here Nov. 17

Bisons' Board Must Make Decision on Invite; Schools May Clash in Basketball

Negotiations for a football game between Bedford high school's undefeated and unscored Bisons and LaSalle high school's Explorers are now under way and a definite decision on whether the classy Pennsylvania team will be able to play here next month will be known by tonight. Brother Gregory, athletic director at the North Centre Street school announced yesterday.

Brother Gregory said that LaSalle has invited Bedford to play here Saturday, November 17, and Coach Bruce M. Fisher, Jr., of Bedford advised the LaSalle athletic director that the date must be acted upon first by members of the school board in view of the fact that it's a post-season game for the Bisons who are scheduled to close their regular campaign with Shade Township at home on November 2.

Sought Game on Nov. 10
In a recent communication Bedford sought a football game with LaSalle in Bedford on November 10 but that was out because the Explorers are scheduled to play Allegany on November 9. Then Fisher inquired if the local school had any available dates after November 10. When November 17 was suggested for a game here Fisher stated that he would give his final answer on the matter probably tonight following a conference with members of his school board.

Bedford is regarded as the outstanding scholastic football team in the tri-state area this season. The Bisons marked up their seventh straight victory over Mercersburg Academy last Friday by the score of 26 to 0 and have rolled up a total of 231 points while holding opposition teams scoreless. The Pennsylvanians, if able to play here, should prove to be a great draw card.

LaSalle and Bedford will meet in a home-to-home basketball series as a result of the school discussing the possibility of meeting on the gridiron, Brother Gregory said.

Coach Fisher is angling to cage contest with the Explorers Bedford on December 28 and a turn game here on March 5. Mary's high, of Clarksburg, is scheduled to play here on December 30 and LaSalle may accept the invitation to play in Bedford days previous to that date.

Soccer Game Called Off

The Bruce-Beall soccer game scheduled yesterday in Westernport was postponed on account of muddy condition of the field. It probably will be played November 3. Equipment of the schools limited and they decided to call the game rather than ruin it the mud.

Beall is scheduled to play Cent today in Frostburg at 4 p. m.

Little Progress Reported in Truck Drivers Dispute

Meeting Set Friday; NLRB Official To Arrange Strike Vote

Although a "little progress" was reported yesterday at a conference with officials of eight Cumberland trucking firms, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, A.F.A., was reported as reiterating that drivers of this area will take strike action Sunday unless their wage dispute is settled satisfactorily.

Both parties met yesterday from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. with Commissioner James A. Holden, of the United States Conciliation Service. A company spokesman said there was a little progress and that a conference was arranged for Friday at 10 a. m. when Holden will meet with Stutzman for the union and Frederick A. Puderbaugh, attorney for the trucking companies.

To Plan Strike Vote

Stutzman told company officials yesterday he was notified that Miss Marian Rau of the National Labor Relations Board will be here today to arrange for a strike vote to be held here November 15.

The union official on October 15 notified the federal agency that drivers would take action October 28 unless a vote were held by last Sunday.

Relations between companies and the union in the present dispute were reported "friendly" and Holden was reported as having hopes that "things may be ironed out."

Winchester, W. Va., drivers, who also threatened to strike this Sunday, were reported as having reached a satisfactory agreement with companies involved.

Puderbaugh reported that the sole issue at stake is where to find the money for an increase in wages. One of the largest companies of this area lost between $4,000 and $5,000 in 1944 and went $2,700 into the red during the first quarter of this year, he added.

Operate in Red

All eight firms involved in the dispute lost money during the first quarter of 1945, Puderbaugh declared. A company spokesman declared a work stoppage at the present time might cause truckers to lose the cream of their business to air freight delivery and preferential freight service.

With this service, the spokesman declared, is high class freight which truckers need for successful operation. Rates set by the ICC are now higher by rail than by truck, and the only edge truckers have is faster delivery.

Blind Businessman Sizes Up Patrons

Rolf Leach, the small businessman who operates the concession stand in the court house corridor, may not be able to see but he's not a bit slow about sizing up the various customers who lean on his counter. He likes most of them.

Yesterday, a person walked up to Roland and said, "I went down town to get some cigars but there was such a long line I thought I would come up here and not have to wait. Give me a pack."

Asked how much his cigars were a pack Roland said "Sixteen cents" whereupon the customer said "What? Why I can get two packs for twenty-seven cents down town."

Roland replied that he was sorry, but he couldn't afford to compete with the store down town.

The customer then laid fifteen cents down on the counter and said "Well, there you are; that's all I will pay."

And as the customer already had Roland's pack of cigars torn open and one sticking out of his mouth, Roland took the fifteen cents and said nothing.

While going through his various pockets the customer finally turned to Roland and said, "Say, give me a match, will you?"

"Penny box?" Roland inquired promptly.

"No, just give me a match out of one of the boxes, I don't need a whole box," the customer replied.

Man Is Fined $20 In Court on Charge Of Assaulting Wife

Charged with assaulting his wife in a front street tavern where she is employed as a barmaid, Lawrence Green, Cumberland, was fined $20 and ordered to pay $5 court costs following a hearing yesterday morning before Magistrate Frank A. Perdue in the magistrate's court.

The magistrate said the couple have been estranged for several months and that the husband went to the tavern Monday night, walked behind the bar assaulted his wife. He allegedly slapped her, struck her on the chest and then pushed her over a chair.

Michael E. Flanagan, Mt. Savage, was fined $10 and costs yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Perdue after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of exceeding fifty miles an hour on Route 40. Flanagan was arrested October 20 by Sgt. Harold C. Carl, of the state police.

USES Officials Make Trip To Cumberland

Lawrence B. Pennman, state director of the United States Employment Service who will retire October 31, and Grafton Lee Brown, assistant state director who succeeds Pennman on November 1, were in Cumberland yesterday for an informal meeting as a part of the tour of the state the two men are now making. Irvin J. Forsyth, chief of operations, accompanied them.

Pennman and Brown were in Frederick Monday night when the Frederick Employment Bureau was awarded a plaque for outstanding achievement.

Atomic Bomb Makes Peace Imperative, Fred Fortess Says

Portess described briefly the development of the nuclear science which led to the creation of atomic energy as a destructive weapon.

Two women made major contributions, he said. Dr. Irene Curie helped discover the neutron which makes possible the chain reaction of uranium-235 and Dr. L. Meitner was among the first to describe the uranium fission which makes available the vast energy released in the atomic bomb.

Portess emphasized the social problems which the atomic bomb presents.

"We have entered the Atomic Energy Age before we have fully learned to live the Machine and Electrical Age. We are no closer today to the peaceful world which the atomic bomb makes imperative," he said.

"There are those among us who believe that it will be possible to keep this new destructive weapon in our possession and thus prevent the nations of the world from going to war.

"This I believe to be incorrect on two counts: first, peace achieved by fear and coercion is a temporary peace and can only result in distrust; secondly, the atomic bomb cannot be kept a secret.

"Many of the scientists who worked on it have publicly stated that there is no conceivable 100 percent effective defense against the bomb. They further state that the world now knows that an atomic bomb can be made, and it is only a question of time before new and bigger bombs will be developed elsewhere.

"We are thus confronted with an atomic bomb armament race unless the United States is prepared either to rule the world or forcefully and sincerely recommend a United States of the World.

"The next world war must be prevented at almost any cost. If it involves our giving up some of our sovereignty, we have the precedent of the thirteen colonies banding together for mutual protection against the common enemy. The common enemy today is the possibility that the next world war will find the atomic bomb destroying civilization as we know it.

"It is not a question of whether 'war can be avoided' but rather 'war must not come again.'"

The meeting was arranged by Miss Nannie Livingston, chairman of the finance committee. Miss Anna Nicht, president, presided.

LOCAL WOMEN ARE INJURED IN TRUCK AND CAR ACCIDENTS

Mrs. Sarah Moreland, 477 Baltimore street, was "getting along fine" in Memorial hospital where she was admitted yesterday at 1:25 p. m. for treatment of injuries suffered when she was struck by a milk truck on Baltimore street yesterday.

Attaches reported Mrs. Moreland was treated for abrasions and bruise of the right cheek, right leg and fingers. She was reported to have stepped out from between two cars when the truck struck her.

Rosella Grabenstein, 25, Route 2, Baltimore pike, was in a "good" condition last evening in Allegheny hospital where she was admitted yesterday at 7 a. m. for treatment of injuries suffered when the car she was driving struck a telephone pole at the eastern end of Baltimore avenue.

She was admitted to the hospital in a semi-conscious condition, suffering from a deep laceration of the forehead and puncture wounds of the right arm.

Hazel Senabaugh, 13, 708 Brookfield avenue, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 11:10 a. m. for a left wrist injury. The Fort Hill high school student said she was injured when she struck her wrist against a steel post in the school gymnasium.

No trace had been found, however, of the 1937 Ford sedan of J. L. Belt, Ridgeley, which Chief of Police Robert Spangler, Ridgeley, said was stolen Monday.

Car Is Recovered

Police reported last evening that the 1937 Ford sedan of Stanton Litzinger, Route 2, which was stolen from in front of Central YMCA October 17, was recovered by state police yesterday on the Baltimore pike near Green Ridge.

Three tires had been stripped from the car, authorities said.

No trace had been found, however, of the 1937 Ford sedan of J. L. Belt, Ridgeley, which Chief of Police Robert Spangler, Ridgeley, said was stolen Monday.

Turnbull Predicts Big Competition In Three Forms of Transportation

The future motive power of the railroads of the country will not be centered upon any one type, according to Douglas C. Turnbull, of Baltimore, executive assistant to the president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Instead, there will be keen rivalry between the renovated steam locomotive and the new types recently developed, Turnbull said in addressing local Rotarians yesterday at their weekly luncheon at the Central YMCA.

Engineering experts of the railroads are now looking to the gas turbine locomotives as a likely competitor of the other types, Turnbull said while the steam turbine, the poppet valve and the Diesel types will continue to be in the race for favor.

The old steam locomotive is not by any means out of the picture, it was declared, there having been so many changes and improvements in

Building Laborers Receive Nine Cent Hourly Wage Boost

Minimum wages of construction workers of the Cumberland area have been increased from sixty-six to seventy-five cents per hour, R. C. Simmons, business agent of Local 616, International Rod Carriers and Common Laborers Union, A.F. of L., announced yesterday.

Then the cent a hour increase scale will affect about 200 Allegheny and Garrett county construction laborers and will provide for a $30 pay check for a forty hour week.

Simmons said most construction laborers are now exceeding the forty-hour work week but that such workers seldom are able to average more than four days a week during winter months because of weather conditions.

The increased minimum wage has been authorized by the Wage Adjustment Board of the Building and Construction division of the Department of Labor.

The new rates will apply to the first payroll after September 26 on construction work at the new Cadet Nurses home for Allegheny hospital and after October 10 on all other construction work let in this area.

An application for an increase from eighty-two and one-half to ninety-two and one-half cents hourly for semi-skilled laborers is now pending before the Wage Adjustment Board, Simmons added.

Occupancy Permit Is Denied; Applicant Appeals to Board

Mrs. Bernadette B. Williams, 218 Emily street, filed an appeal to the board of zoning appeals yesterday after her application for an occupancy permit was denied in the city engineer's office.

Mrs. Williams applied for a permit to occupy a building at 516 Patterson avenue as a store on the first floor and an apartment on the second floor. The premises, which have been vacant for the past year, were formerly occupied for the same purpose.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, denied the application on the ground that the building is located in a Residential "B" zoning district. The owner is William T. Barney, South Smallwood street.

A building permit was granted yesterday to William A. Linder, 11 Schiller terrace, to remodel his two-story frame garage into an apartment. The work is estimated to cost $300.

Forum Committee To Select Four Speakers Soon

Junior Chamber of Commerce Will Bring Outstanding Lecturers Here

C. William Gilchrist, chairman of the Forum committee of the junior chamber of commerce, said yesterday that possible selections for this year's forum series have been narrowed down to eleven possibilities. The committee will decide on four speakers from this array in the next ten days. Lectures will start in December.

Gilchrist, who has spent considerable time studying the slate of possibilities submitted to him by the lecture people, admitted last night that making judicious selections is a tough job with timeliness having considerable to do with the matter.

Until a few weeks ago, people were mainly interested in the war. Now, suddenly, people are living in a postwar world which has also been termed an "atomic age" by some of the higher priced magazines.

One possibility the committeemen are considering is Gerald Wendt, science editor of Time, Life and Fortune magazines and editor of "Science Illustrated." Dr. Wendt is highly recommended, Gilchrist said.

Another possibility is William A. Lydgate, editor of the Gallup Poll, who speaks on "What America Thinks." Another speaker who was recommended in Hagerstown was Andre Michalopoulos, former Greek minister of information.

Other possibilities are Hallett Abend, Far Eastern correspondent for the New York Times; Maurice Hindus, author of "Mother Russia" who is now completing another tour of the Soviet; Max Hill, radio commentator, and formerly of the Tokyo Bureau of the Associated Press; John B. Powell, former editor of the China Weekly Review who was inspired by the Japs and lost both feet due to Jap neglect; Dr. H. H. Chang, Chinese diplomat and author of "Chiang Kai-Shek"; Marquis Childs, columnist; Louis Fischer, contributing editor of the "Nation," and H. R. Knickerbocker, correspondent, who speaks on "At the Ringside of History."

As in past years, the junior chamber plans to start the series in December and run one a month through January, February and March.

Firth To Install Office Workers Charter Tonight

George P. Firth, international vice president of the A.F. of L.'s Office Employees Union, will present the charter to the newly organized Kelly office workers local this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Port Cumberland hotel, Charles E. Stutzman, chairman of the organizing committee of Allegheny Trades Council, announced last evening.

The trades council, at its regular meeting last evening voted unanimously in support of the new local, according to Paul W. England, president of the council.

Temporary officers of the local formed by white collar workers of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, were elected last Wednesday evening, Stutzman said.

A.F. of L. spokesmen said the local is the first of its kind established for the benefit of office employees and added the action was taken at the request of the workers.

England said the council stressed the fact that the formation of the local for the Kelly employees is not to be construed as an A.F. of L.-CIO jurisdictional fight and declared the A.F. of L. group will not attempt to disrupt the work of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, which represents hourly rated Kelly employees.

Local 26, URWA, announced last Wednesday that the union had begun to organize the Kelly office workers and declared the local would soon be able to petition for NLRB certification. Office employees represented by the rubber workers met Sunday at 5 p. m. with officers of the local.

WVW Completes Plans For Participation In Navy Day Parade

All members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are asked to meet at the post home Friday at 5 p. m. to take part in the Navy day parade, according to Verner J. Winner, color sergeant, who will lead the VFW delegation.

Veterans of the First World War are requested to wear their VFW caps. Winner said, "Members who served in the Second World War, and all veterans who served overseas and who are marching with the VFW delegation, are asked to wear the uniforms of their branch of service."

Winner also announced that the second social gathering of Second World War veterans under the sponsorship of the post will be held in the VFW home Wednesday, November 7, at 7:30 p. m.

Drawbaugh Will Filed

The will of Mrs. Rose F. Drawbaugh, 16 Altamont Terrace, was admitted to probate yesterday. Mrs. Drawbaugh, who died October 11, left her estate to her husband, Edward C. Drawbaugh, who was named executor. She also left $200 to a niece, Elizabeth M. Billmyer, and $100 to another niece, Rosalie Billmyer.

The will was drawn July 29, 1913 and witnessed by Frances Gibson Doerner and Sarah J. Evans.

Will Receive Hearing

Richard Gulick, 719 Greene street, posted $10 bond last evening in police court for a hearing this morning at 9 o'clock on a charge of careless driving.

Officer Ernest M. Powell, who preferred charges, said Gulick, driving an Astor cab, forced a car driven by Paul D. Sites, Route 2, against the curb on Baltimore street last evening about 9:30 o'clock. The fenders of the cars were slightly damaged, police said.

Lapp Is Discharged

Pfc. Harry C. Lapp, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Lapp, 68 Boone street, recently received his discharge from the army at Fort Meade.

A graduate of Pennsylvania avenue high school and former employee of the Celanese corporation, Lapp served with the Eighth AAF in England. He was with a transportation outfit there eighteen months.

Lapp wears six stars with his ETO ribbon.

YMCA Directors Outline Schedule For Fall and Winter Activities

Members of the board of the Central YMCA last night contemplated a brisk schedule of fall and winter activities for the community center at the monthly meeting at which Lloyd Rawlings, president, and the Rev. William A. Eisenberger, gave the invocation.

The board decided to discontinue Sunday activities at the Y other than those under the direction of staff members and advisors. The board approved plans for the organization of an industrial club to be affiliated with the national industrial club setup of the YMCA.

It was learned that local golfers will be given an opportunity to keep brushed up on their game this fall and winter at the Y with Carroll Boggs, golf pro at the Cumberland Country Club, scheduled to give instruction every Monday night from 8 to 10 p. m. in the gym.

Will Return

It was announced that Van Roby, well-known physical director at the Job Placements Conference Is Set for Friday

USES and Employers Consider Work for Handicapped Persons

With the first of two conferences aimed at placing handicapped workers in jobs termed a success, the second such meeting will be held on Friday afternoon, Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local office of the United States Employment Service, said yesterday.

The first conference, held Friday, was attended by representatives of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and interviewers of the USES office.

Kelly representatives became so interested in the program that they have asked to attend the second conference this Friday, Carroll reported.

Celanese To Be Represented

He added that representatives of the Celanese Corporation of America and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company also will be present on Friday.

Other employers in the Cumberland area who wish to participate in such a conference are asked to contact Carroll at the USES office. "We'll hold conferences as long as employers are interested," he said.

Last week's meeting with Kelly representatives was held at the USES office, but Carroll said he hopes to find another meeting place for Friday's session so that the conference can continue without interruption.

The conference program is designed to help employers place handicapped workers on an equal basis with non-handicapped workers, Carroll explained, adding that statistics show the handicapped worker can be depended upon even better than a non-handicapped employee.

Have Good Record

Handicapped workers, according to the statistics, have a lower absenteeism record and have production records better than those of non-handicapped employees.

Placement of handicapped workers in satisfactory jobs is brought about by the use of physical data and studies of jobs and workers, Carroll explained.

Commissioners Award Contract For Repair Work

With Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson dissenting, the county commissioners yesterday voted to award a contract to Sleeman Brothers, Frostburg, for repairs to the third floor of Sylvan Retreat, the county asylum, and repairs to the kitchen, on a bid of $12,135.19.

Commissioners Simeon W. Green and James Holmes voted to award the contract with Commissioner Wilkinson dissenting. Wilkinson said the bid was too high and that bids should be advertised for thirty days.

He also stated that the county has only $8,000 available for the project and that $4,000 would have to be taken from the contingent fund.

Sleeman was the only bidder on repairs which were urged by the grand jury of the October term of circuit court. For the entire project the Frostburg firm bid $23,000 and Green protested last week that the bid was open and published and that therefore it would be unfair to readvertise for bids.

Mrs. Rita Crites asked the board to have a road near the Minke Tavern, Baltimore Turnpike, repaired before winter. The request was referred to County Engineer John H. Carscaden for investigation.

George L. Buchanan, chairman of the advance gifts committee, asked the board to contribute to the Community Chest campaign. No action was taken at the session today.

Scoutmasters Plan Scouts' Fun-o-ree

Plans for a fun-o-ree to be held November 10 were discussed at a meeting of Cumberland district scoutmasters last night in the offices of Potomac council, Boy Scouts of America.

The fun-o-ree will be held the afternoon and evening of Saturday, November 10, probably in Constitution park, and games and a campfire will be a feature. The scouts will prepare their own evening meal, according to Kenneth Jackson, scout executive of Potomac council.

Although plans have not been completed, Jackson said a committee appointed last night is expected to report within the next week.

The committee is composed of Bernard Beck, Sr., scoutmaster of Troop No. 8, St. Mary's church, chairman; Edgar Bucy, scoutmaster of Troop No. 2, B. and O. YMCA; George Mahaney, assistant scoutmaster of Troop No. 15, Fort Hill high school, and John Long, neighborhood commissioner of Cumberland district.

Long was presented as a neighborhood commissioner last night by James S. Thayer, Cumberland district commissioner. Long has not yet been named to any particular neighborhood group, Jackson said.

Also discussed last night was a hare and hounds chase tentatively set for early in December. Arch Hutcheson is chairman of the committee in charge.

The next meeting of the scoutmasters will be held November 20.

Heskett Says Ordinance On Smoke Control Will Be Prepared Soon

An ordinance on smoke control for Cumberland will be prepared soon, Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, said yesterday.

Explaining that he has been gathering material on the subject for several years, Heskett recalled that the mayor and city council have promised to take action to secure the necessary materials for making control devices as soon as the materials are available.

The attorney said that last week the Batelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, O., gave a demonstration of a smoke-abatement device it has developed. The equipment, known as overfire jets, has been installed by nearly twenty major railroads on a total of almost 1,000 locomotives. The device can be installed on a locomotive at a cost ranging from $150 to $200. Only the design of the nozzle is standardized, the railroads themselves adapting the device to the types of locomotives used.

Heskett said he will ask the cooperation of railroads and industries here in developing a smoke control program.

200 New Discharges Are Recorded Here

Members of the office of the clerk of court are getting ready for a Christmas rush in the recording office where discharges of returned veterans are recorded.

Over 200 new discharges have been brought into the office for recording in the last two days, it was announced yesterday. This is the highest two-day record ever set. Previously, the discharges had averaged anywhere from thirty-five to fifty a day.

As of last week, the total number of Allegheny county discharges recorded was 700.

Yesterday, office attaches commented "if the present pace keeps up the rest of the week we'll double the entire total in one week."
